FREW & CAMPBELL,

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1877.

A Paid Mayor. Near the close of the last Council and just previous to the late session of the Legislature, there was talk of securing such amendatory legislation as might be necessary for the perfection of a better system of municipal government for this city than now exists. It was proposed to sak for such changes in the charter as would make the officials more directly amenable to the Council, by which it was amenable to the Council, by which it was intended to avoid the uncertain, costly and somewhat doubtful process of impeachment; also to provide some method for checking the extravagant and reck.

The Holidays, their Nignificance and Associations. for checking the extravagant and reckless expenditure of the public money.

Just how the first was to be accomplished burdens of that officer. Let us examine more particularly into the increased re sponsibilities which the proposed ordi nance inflicts upon the Mayor. The first amendment requires the Mayor to have an office and remain in it from 9 A. M. t 3 P. M.—bank hours—a little confining t be sure, but with all a very comfortabl arrangement either for hot or cold weath er. It also provides that he shall keep record book, wherein shall be entered a complaints of violations of the ordinance and misconduct or neglect of duty on th part of officers, Heretofore the city officers have been

men of such character that few if any complaints have been entered against The book would therefore only need to be a very small one. Still, to have rounded out the clause and made i unique, it ought to have provided tha the Mayor be provided with a clerk to make the entrie

Section 7 of the proposed ordinance provides that in case the Mayor should suspend any officer he shall appoint a proper person to perform the duties of such office, and shall report his action and prefer charges against such officer in accordance with the 38th rule.

Section 10 of the amended ordinance seems to have no particular scope beyond that of making the Mayor a dead-head to all the shows or theatrical entertainment which he may desire to attend. Turning to page 187 of the printed or-dinances, it will be found that the S sec tions, comprising chapter 30, relating to the powers and duties of the Mayor, have simply by a few glittering generalities been expanded into fourtren and that there is really nothing in the amendments with the exception of the 12th sec tion, for which all the rest were made and which consequently contains the gisvice which he has not already sworn to perform. Having failed to secure legislation abolishing the Municipal Court, with its concerous clerkship, and establishing police court with the Mayor as the pre siding officer; having failed to secure suc legislation as would render the heads of the great money spending department more directly amenable to Council; in the face of the crippled condition of the city finances and the rigid economy which every intelligent Councilman feels to be an enforced necessity, we cannot se either the propriety or policy of a use less expenditure of two thousand dollars for the mere luxury of a salaried Mayor It is claimed that the Mayor cannot give the requisite time to the oversight of mu nicipal affairs because it is a "thank you" job, with very little of the thanks ingred ient, yet time and again has he sworn to do so. Neither in this respect does the Mayor stand above his compeers, the chairmen of the leading standing com mittees of Council, of whom it may b said, and fully substantiated, that they devote as much and more of their time to the gratuitous service of the city than is required of the Mayor. It is true that the argument submitted as a preamble to the ordinance sets forth that the committee men will be relieved of their work, because the Mayor, for pay, is willing to shoulder the burder In reply to this, we may say that we are not in favor of an autocracy, nor do we believe that the people are much in favor of the one man power, be it ever so wisely exercised. They are of opinion, not withstanding the sad experience of many cities at the hands of plundering rings that there is less danger, comparatively, from the combinations of committees than from the concentrated power of one man, or a narrow circle of paid officials. The plea of relief to committeemen falls to the ground, because there will continue to be committees and committee work and it is right that there should be. The defect is the miserable system under which our municipal affairs are conducted, which can only be corrected by mere creation of a salary for the Mayor will not provide a remedy, while with the duties at present devolving upon him, or proposed by the amended ordinance, and a salary sufficient to enable the incumbent to remain in his office from 9 A. M to 3 r. M., the Mayoralty would be a nearly a sinecure as an other 'office which it is needless to specify.

For the present it is sufficient to say that when the office of Mayor shall have been dignified with an importance above and beyond that of a village Selectman it will be proper to invest it with a salary commensurate with its duties. Until such

HOLY WEEK.

The season known in the ecclesiastical calendar as Holy Week, began last Sun-day, and forms the concluding week of less expenditure of the public money. Just how the first was to be accomplished never appeared, as no formal proposition was ever suggested in Council. As to the second, we have the enactment passed by the Legislature and now a law. It was then proposed that under the amendatory legislation the Mayor should become a paid officer, a portion of his duties being to act as judge of the Police court, the present Municipal Court to be abolished. Owing to the apathy incident to an explring Council's term, nothing was accomplished towards any material change in the charter, and along with this failure the idea of a paid Mayoralty was supposed to have been abandoned for the present. Lately, however, there have been decided indications in certain quarters that "things were workin" for the development of a more metropolitan cast in our municipal affairs, and in order to be like cities of larger growth we must have a paid Mayor. The matter finally culminated in the presentation and first reading of an ordinance at the last session of the Council, nominally increasing the duties of the Mayor and giving him a salary of $2,000.

The ordinance is preceded by an argument from the committee under the title of a preamble, urging certain reasons for the adoption of the ordinance. The document is composed of fourteen sections, and after perusing them it would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to tell wherein the proposed amendments to the existing ordinance prescribing the duties of the Mayor materially enhance the official burdens of that officer. Let us examine more particularly into the increased re-
